No one knows what the future of journalism is. But we know it will have to be different from its past. In some ways it should be. We at the @riss_oxford want to be part of this future, and we believe we can help make it work. A personal note on my new role.

What can we do for journalism?
When I think of journalism I think of the journalists who do it and the people they do it for, and the question for me as new Director of the Reuters Institute for the... rasmuskleisnielsen.net
