Kat Steiner, Assistant Librarian, Bodleian Education Library

Sarah Wilson, Collections & Instructional Materials Manager, Sainsbury Library, Said Business School
Plan for today

- Part 1: The literature review process
- Part 2: Searching
- Part 3: Search tools
- Part 4: Citations
- Part 5: Alerts
By the end of the session, you should:

- Understand the literature review process
- Be able to plan an effective and structured search for your dissertation or thesis
- Know where to look for different types of information
- Have evaluated different methods of searching
- Have developed search skills that can be applied across different resources
- Know where to come for future help
Part 1: The literature review process
Developing your literature search

1. Preliminary searching and browsing
   – Scan abstracts and skim-read papers
   – Identify current directions of research
   – How will you contribute new knowledge?

2. Structured searching with appropriate syntax
   – Identify the key articles and heavily-cited papers
   – Establish key authors, organizations and sources
   – Commit to in-depth consideration and re-reading of papers

3. Develop search
   – Track citations to follow research connections – “Cast net more widely” in terms of resources searched
   – Set up alerts for new content

• Stay focused on the research question and keep a search log
Part 2: Searching

Keywords

Thesaurus

Natural language

Boolean

Citation chaining

Cross-searching

Synonyms

Relevant scholarly research
Start with a clear research question e.g.

What is being done to help prevent AIDS in Zimbabwe?
Search method 1: Natural language searching

Google Scholar search for "what is being done to help prevent aids in Zimbabwe?"

The International Bibliography of the Social Sciences (IBSS) includes over 3 million bibliographic references to journal articles and to books, reviews and selected chapters dating back to 1951. It is unique in its broad coverage of international material and incorporates over 100 languages and countries. It provides cross-disciplinary coverage across the social sciences, focused on four primary subject areas: anthropology, economics, political science and sociology.

Coverage: 1951 - current

Subject coverage
- Anthropology
- Archaeology
- Cultural studies
- Demography

Also part of International Bibliography of the Social Sciences (IBSS) can also be searched as part of:
- Social Science Premium Collection
Exercise: Building a structured search

1. Create a structured search from your keywords
2. Apply the search to one of the following:
   - IBSS - http://search.proquest.com/ibss
   Or a key database in your field
3. Explore the database search functionality
4. Refine your search
Search Method 3: Database subject headings

- Use database subject headings to identify new and useful search terms
- Terms are assigned by the database editors from a set of controlled vocabulary (thesaurus)
  - Broader terms – brings together synonyms and related terms under one heading
  - Narrower terms – helps refine your search
Search method 4: Scholarly search engines

SOLO Articles / Search Everything
- Scholarly search engine
- Cross-disciplinary resource
- Some subjects are covered better than others
- Lacks specialist search options

Other ProQuest databases:
- Dissertations & theses
What if it’s not available in Oxford?

• Try to obtain it on Interlibrary Loan
  – PDF/scanned copy of article or book chapter
  – Borrow the whole book from another library in the UK or internationally
  – Place a request at https://solo.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/interlib
  – Cost is usually £5.00

• Recommend that one of the Bodleian Libraries buy a copy/subscription
  – https://www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/subjects-and-libraries/recommendations

• Google to see if an Open Access version is available

• Buy the individual article from the publisher (last resort)
Part 3: Search tools
Access online resources provided by the Bodleian Libraries

• SOLO
  solo.bodleian.ox.ac.uk

• Databases A-Z
  libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/az.php

• LibGuides
  ox.libguides.com
Recording your methodology

“We searched six databases (Medline, Embase, PsychINFO, CINAHL, IBSS and SSCI) systematically, along with a manual search, including key journals and subject experts. Peer-reviewed studies were included if they qualitatively explored experiences of or socio-structural contexts for injection drug use initiation. A thematic synthesis approach was used to identify descriptive and analytical themes throughout studies.”

Exercise: Select databases

1. Ask yourself two questions:
   - Which subjects are pertinent to my topic?
     (sociology, health, public policy, education..)
   - Which formats might contain relevant research?
     (journal articles, working papers, books, datasets)

2. Explore the subject menu on Databases A-Z
   libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/az.php

3. Explore the LibGuides for recommended resources
   ox.libguides.com
Part 4:
Citations

Researcher 3 Cites researcher 2 Cites researcher 1

Impact
Use citations to:

• Locate current research based on earlier research
• Find out how many times, and where, a publication is being cited
• Identify who is referencing a particular paper
• Explore how a particular research topic is being used to support other research
• Analyse the impact of a publication on other research in the field
• Track the history of a research idea
• Keep track of your own research
Where can you get citation information?

- Web of Science
  - Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI)
  - Over 3,200 titles
  - Citations from 1900-present

- Scopus
  - Social Sciences & Humanities subject collection
  - Over 22,000 titles; 1.4 billion citations
  - Cited references going back to 1970

- Google Scholar
  - “While we try to be comprehensive, it isn't possible to guarantee uninterrupted coverage of any particular source”
Identify current research based on earlier research

Exercise: Citation searching

1. Use your structured search in Web of Science Social Science Citation Index (SSCI)
2. Sort your results by Relevance – note some titles which have been highly cited.
3. Sort your results by Times Cited – note some titles which look relevant.
